PROFILE

The 104 Homestead got its start in 2013 and has since become my full-time job (minus the child-rearing job). Many hours are dedicated to writing new content, keeping existing content current, networking, participating in projects, and helping people (online and locally) learn to homestead.

Owner and operator, Jessica Lane, is a mother of three, living on 5.5 acres in Western Maine. She raises goats, rabbits, chickens, ducks, and various 4H project animals. Homesteading is a way of life for Jessica and her family, and she enjoys sharing her experience with others.
